

Program

Triumph Over Trauma

The primary objective of this activity is to present evidence-based treatments, such as cognitive processing therapy, to address trauma disorders in adults and adolescent populations.

Additionally, we will explore the impact of secondary trauma in health care populations and the disease burden from chronic trauma on marginalized communities. The symposium endeavors to curate an emotionally safe and judgment-free space where trauma-focused care is modeled, and clinicians leave better equipped to support clients with a history of trauma.

Target Audience:

Psychiatric-Mental Health Nurses and Providers

Keynote Speaker:

Naida Rutherford, B.S., BSN, MSN,
Richland County Coroner

As a practitioner, I employ a unique blend of advanced clinical skills, patient-centered care and a holistic approach to health and wellness. I am a constant advocate for improvements in patient care standards, and access to health care in underserved communities. I also use my platform to mentor to the next generation of healthcare professionals.

Program Outcomes:

Understanding/recognizing the different types of trauma and the physiological and psychological effects of trauma.
